Nick Dunkman

🏠 San Francisco, CA, USA   ✍️ nickdunkman@gmail.com   NickDunkman

Staff fullstack engineer • Frontend-leaning • Typescript • React • Python

References

"Nick (who I've hired three times!) is a singularly talented engineer and product thinker. Over nearly twenty years and within a few different companies, I've witnessed him repeatedly learn entirely new technologies, build and amplify the impact of his teams, and reliably ship products that exceed a founder's vision. He also cares deeply about his work: about the colleagues who rely on him; about the users who expect high quality experiences, and about the integrity of well developed software that does not cut corners. I would work together with Nick again in a heartbeat."

David Vivero

Founder and former CEO of both Amino Health and RentJuice

"I had the privilege of working alongside Nick for nearly nine years at Amino, where he hired me straight out of a coding bootcamp and mentored me all the way to Staff Engineer. Nick is an exceptional engineer and teammate—deeply thoughtful, low-ego, and genuinely invested in the growth of those around him. His mentorship style is hands-on and collaborative; he offers insightful, constructive feedback and is always open to learning from others, regardless of their title or experience. Nick brings a sharp product and design sensibility to his work, consistently delivering clean, reusable code and features that make a real impact. Anyone would be lucky to work with him."

Laura Gelston

Former staff software engineer at Amino Health

"Nick is an absolute gem of a human being, and if he's applying to work with you, I'd say you're very lucky. I collaborated closely with Nick for many years at Amino, where I led design and he led the frontend and full stack engineers. I couldn't have asked for a better partner. Because of Nick, our tiny team was able to consistently ship world class product experiences that delighted users and even won some fancy awards. Nick's rare combination of intelligence, kindness, and tenacious curiosity make him one of my favorite people I've ever worked with. You should have hired him yesterday!"

Sumul Shah

Co-founder & former head of design at Amino Health

"Nick is a well-balanced engineering leader and executor—he cares intently about his craft, his team, and humans on the other end of the browser. At Amino he took us from zero to one, then over the next ten years led our frontend discipline and kept us up to date with modern practices. He mentored another engineer from straight out of a bootcamp up to staff engineer, while keeping velocity high and stress levels low—I'd gladly work with him again on a team of any size."

Jim Fingal

Former CTO at Amino Health